ANNOUNCEMENTS

CONGRESSIONAL

We are authorized to announce SAM C. MAJOR as a candidate for the office of Representative in Congress from the Seventh Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic voters at the primary election August 1, 1922.

COUNTY

We are authorized to announce F. G. YOUNG as a candidate for the office of Circuit Clerk of Lafayette County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters at the primary election August 1, 1922.

We are authorized to announce M. T. HARTMAN as a candidate for the office of Collector of Lafayette County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters at the primary election August 1, 1922.

There appears to be considerable enthusiasm in favor of the proposed Retail Institute to be held in Lexington in the near future.

Sir Harry Lauder says that prohibition in America is "pitiful to look at." And Sir Harry has never attended a session of the criminal court in Lafayette county. No need to guess what his opinion would have been if he had heard some very recent trials.

Elmer H. White, County Supt. of Schools, was in Bates City Wednesday helping to plan a new central building for the Bates City consolidated school district, No. 3. The school district expects to vote bonds for this new building April 4th.

Supt. White reports the roads in fair condition.

The all-year round positions at good salaries afforded by business life are proving especially attractive to rural teachers judging by the many inquiries received daily at Chillicothe Business College and the numerous enrollments resulting.

WASHINGTON NEWS

LETTER

Items of Interest to Missourians From The National Capitol.

The incapacity and lack of sincerity displayed by the Republican organization in the Senate was revealed in a most forceful manner one day last week by Senator Reed and in a way to make many of the majority members literally squirm in their seats. With a scalpel of irony, sarcasm and logic the senator from Missouri operated on his opponents in his own inimitable style to the delight of his Democratic colleagues and the galleries.

"It so happens that a few votes such as we had the other day," referring to the seating of Senator Newberry, "may do a country a good deal more harm than a thousand speeches."

Without calling him by name the Missourian pointedly referred to Senator Townsend as a "gentleman with a soured stomach and disordered liver and that sometime is impressed on his countenance as well as expression in his language."

Then, turning to the Republican leaders generally, he charged their lack of decision was responsible for real delay, citing the bonus bill which he declared, "was to be galloped through the Senate with the gait of John Gilpin's mare." Continuing, he said: "Whatever you do over there don't charge us with wasting time on the bonus bill. After two weeks of discussion you took this bill back to the committee and put it on ice. The oldest refrigerator in all the world is the cold-storage room of the Finance Committee of the Senate."

The senator from Missouri then twitted the Republicans with their failure to pass their tariff bill and with their efforts to so frame a revenue law as to relieve the rich which as he expressed it, "the iron stomach of some of your own party" could not stand. Further, he charged that but for open debates in the senate the Republicans would have brought in a $500,000,000 bill for the railroads and that fear of publicity in unlimited debate was the sole barrier.

According to announcements made both United States senators from Missouri and ten of the members of the House are favorable to the principle and adjusted compensation for ex-service men. Several, however, insist that the bill must be so drafted as not to prove a drain on the Federal treasury.

When Maj. Gen. L. H. Beach, chief of engineers, visits Missouri to inspect the threatened destruction of the river bank at Cumberland bend he also will inspect a similar condition said to exist near Glasgow at Little Missouri bend. Assurances to this effect were conveyed to W. R. DeWitt of Glasgow.

Postmasters soon to be appointed in Missouri include Lee Moore, Warsaw; Victor Remley, Orrick, and James H. Somerville, Mercer.

A breakfast, to which the wives of the Republican members of Congress from Missouri were invited, was given last Thursday by Mrs. Frank C. Millspaugh, wife of the First district congressman. The breakfast served at noon, has supplanted the afternoon tea with the social set of Washington.

Missouri postmasters whose nominations have been transmitted to the senate during the last week are: Walter C. Heferkamp, Augusta; Harold D. Condre, Ellisonore; Guy Ridings, Middletown; Gustav C. Rau, Pacific; Arthur Rice, Alton; John M. Atkinson, Jr., El Dorado Springs; George W. Daives, Osceola; Louis Alt, St. Louis; Albert W. Selway, Williamstown; Edwin H. Verner, Gerald; Lloyd G. McKay, Troy; Don J. Schaper, Warrenton; Oscar S. Shults, Washington; Arthur C. Packe, Adrian; Lester C. Snoddy, Ash Grove; Thomas G. Leach, Buffalo; Percy B. Kidney, Darlington.

On introduction from Senator Reed, M. J. Lilly of Moberly, was admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

Republican leaders of the Senate are not resting very easily, Judge Kenyon, former senator from Iowa, defended Senator Reed's course in the Newberry case in a speech in Missouri and Senator Spencer, proud of leading the fight for Newberry, resented it, issuing a statement. Those who voted for Newberry are wondering when Senator Reed will re-open discussion of this unsavory mess.

For The Children.

Too much care cannot be exercised in selecting a cough medicine for children. It should be pleasant to take, contain no harmful drug and most effectual in curing their coughs and colds. Long experience has shown that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets these conditions. It is a favorite with many mothers.

WENT ALTOGETHER TOO FAR

Delegation Couldn't Help but Think That the Head of the Corporation Was Unreasonable.

The head of a number of corporations, on the verge of a nervous breakdown, decided to get his house in order prior to an extended sojourn in southern California.

Among other details, he put in economies in the office forces of these companies, which included laying off a large number of clerks.

These men, learning of their impending dismissal, sent a delegation to wait on their superior. The conversation waxed personal and the chief of the clerical committee suggested that if the president had not appropriated so large a salary things might have been different for their jobs.

Without losing his temper, the officer replied: "Very well, as you put it that way, will you gentlemen work here on the same basis as I am?"

The answer was a unanimous affirmative.

"All right. You will discover from the accounting department that my salary was entirely discontinued the first of the year," said the president.

The meeting broke up in confusion.—Wall Street Journal.

Grandfather—All right, but you be careful and don't go too near it.

CRAFTY GERMANS

It is now known why and how the famous central picture of Van Eyck's painting, "The Adoration of the Lamb," was hidden by the Belgians of Ghent during the war to save it from the invading Germans, who, for many decades, have held the accompanying shutters or panels. Perhaps it will never be known where the canon of St. Ravyon put it and thus defied all efforts of the Germans to gain possession of the treasure, but it certainly remained safe till the treaty of Versailles could stipulate that the six shutters of the great work then in Berlin should be restored to Ghent. The Germans, who had originally given only 500,000 thalers for the shutters, now asked 75,000,000 francs for the lot, in spite of the fact that two years earlier they had put their value at something under 20,000,000 francs. As the value of the shutters has had to be deducted from the total sum due for reparations, the Germans may be said to have driven a handsome bargain.—Christian Science Monitor.

GETTING A LIKENESS

The photographer had made some very striking portraits of a fair young woman. In fact they were so good that she had ordered one of them tinted in oil at a price of $20. The photographer was showing her the finished picture for the first time, and after a moment's study she said:

"I think you have made the color of my hair a little too bright a red."

"It can be made a little darker, if you like," replied the photographer.

"No, on second thought, I don't think you need change it. I rather like the shade and I'll just change the color of my hair to match the picture," she answered.

QUERIES IN THE FILMS

"I know you for a writer of genius. We must have more such in the movies."

"I thank you."

"Now, I have 90 feet of a fireman's parade, 150 feet of bathing girls at Long Beach and 300 feet of the Hale-Yarvard game. 'Kin you write me a story of genius around them?"—Film Fun.
